

1. Deep learning is a subset of machine learning using neutral networks with multiple layers to analyze complex data.

2. Machine learning uses algorithms, while deep learning uses neutral networks with multiple layers.